Summer Reading officially starts next week. The prizes are in the display case and on the center octagon in the library. This is our busiest time of the year and also the hardest because we all take turns going on vacation.

Our front windows are painted and beautiful! We've had a lot of compliments. We're going to leave the three oak trees up through the winter and we'll reevaluate the All Together Now window after Summer Reading is finished.

The coffee pot is out and ready. Thank you to the anonymous donor. We have been keeping track of how many people have coffee and it has been 0-3 people per day. People can't seem to use the individual cup side without making a giant mess and complaining there are grounds in their cup. So today I put the individual cups away and we're just using the pot now. It only takes a few minutes to brew a pot if someone wants the freshest. I didn't expect there to be a user learning curve but I guess there is.
